Foreword

It is my greatest pleasure to present our accomplishments and endeavors through the annual report in which we have summarized the main activity and key data of 2018. I would also like to take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to all of you who have tirelessly devoted time, support, and encouragement in the process of our growth.

In 2018, we saw an increase in our sphere of influence through the unique incorporation of globalization and localization. Through the development of partnership among the local governments as well as the community, we gained partnerships that are politically and socially viable, which creates trust with all groups of people. Good Neighbors is rising to the challenge and building upon our rich history to meet the main goals that we promised at the inception of our organization in 1991. To better achieve the SDGs, Good Neighbors developed standards, policies, and administrative institutions that follow the development architecture of international organizations. This growth not only puts Good Neighbors on higher grounds for influence but also allows greater ability to interact with other global communities around the world.

Additionally, there was an increase in the quality of ownership amongst the local people. Networking with corporations has also played an integral role in supporting the field countries by evolving the social economy on a local level to generate income for the community.

Good Neighbors acknowledged the new emerging issues and upheld an inclusive and integrated model of development. This allowed us to provide the highest quality of support to refugees, increase awareness for women's rights, improve the environment on a health and sanitation level by building new water systems for communities for children to develop in a safe and secure environment. As we continue to aspire towards a greater expansion throughout the globe, it is my pleasure to announce that our very own Global Partnership Center is now beginning to take root in Australia, El Salvador, UK, and Taiwan. In every aspect of our work, we recognize that partnership is the core of our success. As we closely cooperate with governments of the affected communities and UN agencies, such as the UN ECOSOC, we hold the General Consultative Status with high regards and as a cooperating partner of UNHCR, WFP, we take the responsibility and hold each other accountable in paving the road to resolving the greatest needs and issues of our world.

In retrospect, it is clear to me that it was through your passion and service, that Good Neighbors is where we are today. Together we can bring good change for the world.

Thank you all, and I look forward to another incredible year at Good Neighbors.

Community Development Project

Community Development Projects (CDP) are projects implemented by Good Neighbors to create a world where children can live in happiness and harmony. Backed by the two pillars of "Child Sponsorship" and "Community Development Committee (CDC)," an association of community members, these projects are geared toward building sustainable and balanced development of the community in which children live through education, health, water and sanitation, and income generation projects.

In 2018, we worked with 210 CDPs in 36 countries to strengthen the social and economic capabilities of the children, their families, and their community, with the ultimate goal of building a basis for their self-reliance.

Education and Protection Educating children in order to dream a brighter future

Good Neighbors supports the quality and accessibility of education for children around the world by providing them educational facilities, materials, tuition fees, and stationeries as well as capacity-building training programs for the teachers. In 2018, we focused on an integrated educational program that seeks to improve the educational facilities and services in vulnerable areas to strengthen the knowledge of children, build children's clubs and advocacy campaigns, and thereby enhance ownership and community awareness for the children.

Improving Educational Environment with New Kindergartens

“ After the new kindergarten was built, the age-old problem of child education that plagued the community was finally resolved. Children of the community can now receive education in a safe environment. I truly look forward to the dreams that they will hold in the coming days.

Tran Thi Hang / Principal of the Dong Lai Kindergarten

Dong Lai is a small and isolated village in Vietnam, primarily occupied by minorities. Because of its isolation and the lack of social security services, life in Dong Lai is not the easiest. There is also an absolute shortage of educational facilities in the village, forcing the villagers to use the old cultural center as a temporary classroom and leaving nearly 47% of the children without caretakers, which means that they have to follow their parents to their places of work. Good Neighbors Vietnam constructed eight classrooms, a canteen, and a yard to ensure that the children will have a safe place to receive their education. Once the kindergarten was built, both the children from the temporary classroom and 223 new students were admitted into the kindergarten to receive much-needed care.

Strengthening Learning and Technological Capabilities through the Vocational Training Center

“ I have learned how to use computer programs like Microsoft Word and Excel, and I have improved my English a bit as well, so I was able to pass the test with flying colors. I'm very happy to be able to continue working on IT and other skills.

Sok Sokita / Student at the vocational center

Many Cambodian teenagers of Sangkat between the ages of 15 and 18 are forced to work in medical factories or construction sites, which do not require specialized skills, for hard work yet little pay. Good Neighbors Cambodia built a vocational training center for the teenagers to continue their education and acquire specialized skills. Students now have access to basic education in English and Mathematics as well as vocational training on IT skills to help them continue their path of learning while building their own technical capabilities.

Future for Africa, “Hope Schools”

“ Because of the lack of essential facilities like classrooms, desks, toilets and so on, teachers and students study in the poor learning environment. But thanks to Hope school project, the learning condition was improved and more students had a motivation of studying. Actually, this project made more students study in the school and make their own future.

Dibala Bizaluel / Chair of Malawi Mkangamira Hope School Management Committee

Since 2009, Good Neighbors has undertaken the “Hope School” project in 58 schools across 12 African countries with the goal of helping African children grow as “Good Neighbors.” In 2018, we established three strategic goals based on the effectiveness study on the Hope school project and had a positive influence on the individual growth of African children and the communities

Improving Accessibility to Health Services with Community Health Posts

Before, the closest health facility we had was 26 km away. It was such an ordeal to get there that no one even dreamed of delivering a baby there. Now, with the new health post about an hour's travel, we have access to antenatal care, and my baby and I are both health and safe.

Strengthening Health Services using Tablet PC

When we had to record the patient information by hand, it took so long for us that we often could not sufficiently care for our patients and provide them with quality services. Now, thanks to the tablet PCs, we can easily access patient information, allowing us to focus on the services we provide and our patients.

Mary Akelembisa / Community Health Officer (Dasobligo Community)

The people of Dzonguene, Mozambique, had no access to pertinent medical services due to lack of public health facilities and the reliance on traditional folk medicine. To rectify this issue, Good Neighbors Mozambique constructed a community health post and provided medical supplies and instruments to enhance the accessibility to quality healthcare services. Moreover, it provided training and support to Community Health Workers, who, in turn, worked to improve the public awareness of the community on health issues. The project allowed community members to learn basic health knowledge from the Community Health Workers and improved the public health environment of the community.

In Ghana, patient information and medical records are filled out manually, leading to issues such as data omission and human errors, which in turn leads to incorrect diagnosis and low-quality healthcare services. Good Neighbors Ghana worked together with Samsung Electronics and the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) in implementing a mHealth project, which utilizes tablet PCs and a health information management system called eTracker. The project has allowed access to systematic health services for the community members by improving the efficiency and quality of health information management.

Good Neighbors protects children and the community from contagious disease by ensuring access to clean and safe water and sanitary environment. The water, sanitation, and hygiene (WASH) projects have provided support for the local WASH committees and supervised hygiene education and awareness campaigns to help the community members acquire healthy and clean habits. In 2018, Good Neighbors implemented the “Good Water Project” in schools to provide clean water and empower the community to protect their environment.

Finding Happiness in Our Daily Lives with the “Good Water Project”

As most of our students had to walk very far to get water every morning, both their attendance and performance at school suffered heavily. However, once a water pump was installed in the school, our students could come to school rather than going to the rivers to fetch water. New restroom facilities and regular hygiene education helped change the lives of our students.

Chansa Changala / Deputy Head Teacher of Myooye Secondary School, Zambia

The children of Zambia’s Mumbwa region walk at least 2 km a day to get drinking water for themselves and their families. However, despite the long trek, they can only find muddy water, exposing them to waterborne diseases. Not to mention the time lost walking often prevents the children from attending schools. This was why Good Neighbors Zambia implemented the “Good Water Project” in school, which provided children and community members access to safe water sources. Nine schools received water tanks and water facilities. In addition, the project renovated restroom facilities and provided hygiene education for the children.

Income Generation

Building the Dream of Self-Reliance with Our Own Hands

© Sangun Kim / Good Neighbors

Good Neighbors organized cooperatives to build a voluntary basis for self-reliance within the community and assisted projects by managing social enterprises that serve to provide jobs and social services. In 2018, Good Neighbors developed cooperative goods that capitalized upon the unique characteristics and technologies of these communities and sought to improve our competitiveness in sales and distribution to support a stronger community economy.

Building the Power of Self-Reliance through Cooperatives

We had good materials and the proper techniques, but we did not know what to make with them, nor did we have sellers. Thanks to Good Neighbors, we can now sell the bags we carefully made to good consumers. Using the income from the bags, I can pay for the education of my two daughters, and I feel more valued and stronger than before. Life is good!

Pedowsi / Member of the Bangladeshi Mirpur Cooperative

The Mirpur Cooperative of Bangladesh is made up of 14 women from low-income families. While the members of the cooperative were reasonably skilled in the art of making products out of white jute (Corchorus capsularis), their products failed to find a steady seller to generate significant income.

Good Neighbors Bangladesh connected the resources and the skills of cooperative members into a new income generation project. Marketing analysis, discussions, and testing processes allowed the cooperative to come up with the “Jute” bags. These Bangladesh cooperative products are distributed in Korea through MERRYCOOP (Good Neighbors’ cooperative goods brand), and their competitiveness continues to grow thanks to the donated talents of Korean professional designers.

Raising Awareness through the Child Club

Being active in the children's club taught me what my rights are and why they should be protected, allowing me to teach my community through puppet plays and campaigns. I am really happy to say that I have contributed to protecting the rights of my friends and myself!

Sereya / Participant in the children's club program

Korogocho is a slum area of Nairobi, Kenya, and is a dangerous place for children. Because of the lack of awareness of children's rights, children are often exposed to sexual violence and abuse.

Good Neighbors Kenya thus organized the Safe Club, a child club made up of 30 students, for child rights education and sexual education. The children of the Safe Club organized their own puppet play to prevent children's sexual violence in many schools in the area and engaged in street campaigns to promote the values of children's rights to the members of the community.

Starting with our children's meal support in Sinuiju area, we have implemented children's protection support, food support, public health support, and agricultural development projects across 25 project areas in North Korea to deliver hope and support toward self-reliance of our neighbors in North Korea and for the North Korean children to grow up in a better environment.

A world where children can grow up without worry,
a world where everyone can dream of hope,
the world that we dream of is a good world,
where we share and live together as good neighbors.

The warm hand that the Good Neighbors around the world have held out to their neighbors in need have created small yet great changes across the world.

With the same passion and dream we had years ago, with the same courage in pushing for new challenges, we will stand with the good neighbors around the world and create good changes for the world.

Established in 1991, Good Neighbors is an international humanitarian development NGO, creating positive changes in 42 nations around the world.
